

Exotic Animals as Pets

What is an exotic pet?

Did you know it is difficult to give a clear definition of 'exotic'.

Any animal that is not native to the country where it is kept.

They are completely reliant on their keeper to provide an appropriate environment and food to stay healthy and to exhibit natural behaviours

Why do you think people keep exotic pets?

Starter Activity
Working in pairs create a mind map of what an exotic (non-domestic) pet is.

Exotic Animal - Iguana

Iguanas come from tropical places in the Caribbean and in Central and South America

Think about the conditions iguanas are used to in these places.

How do you think iguanas feel when they come to the UK? How are the conditions different here?

Did you know

All pets, including exotic animals, require proper care and attention. But exotics can be more expensive to feed and look after properly and they often require specialist living conditions.

Some owners keep exotic animals in unsuitable conditions, which cause a variety of illnesses and injuries. It can also be difficult and costly to find a vet who is experienced in treating these animals.

Looking after an Exotic Pet

Suitable pets?: Green iguana

Where do they come from?

Green iguanas come from the Caribbean and Central and South America – over 3,000 miles away. It is hard to look after iguanas properly – here are some of the things people who want to have a green iguana as a pet need to think about.

What type of place do they need to live in?

Iguanas come from hot countries. They need a big place to live called a vivarium. An adult iguana's vivarium needs to be about the size of a small bedroom. It will need to be cleaned out once a week. They need lots of branches to climb on and plants and rocks to hide behind.

Light

- They need special lights that mimic daylight.
- The lights in the vivarium need to be turned on and off at different times so the iguana has day and night times.

Heat

They also need a special spotlight to provide hot and cool areas to stay warm. You need a thermostat in the vivarium to make sure it is the right temperature.

Moisture

Iguanas in the wild tend to live near water. The air in the vivarium needs to be sprayed with water to keep the air moist. The tank should have a hygrometer to check how much moisture there is in the air.

Task

1. Read through the Suitable pets fact sheet and make notes of all the different things you need to buy to look after a green iguana properly.

2. Feedback to the class and come up with a 'class list of suggestions' e.g vivarium

3. In pairs, compare a common pet such as a dog or cat with an iguana.

What are the differences? What do dogs need to be happy and healthy and what do iguanas need?

GENERATION
KIND

To find out more about exotic pets head to the following website to find various care sheets based around exotics www.rspca.org.uk/adviceandwelfare/pets/other

RSPCA Exotic Animals YouTube

To watch more YouTube clips click here.

Plenary & Extension

Are exotic animals suitable pets?

In groups, you need to decide whether you think exotic animals such as iguanas make good pets.

Can you share your experiences of exotic pets? Do you know someone who owns one? Do you have an exotic pet yourself?

Extension Activity

Can you write to the chief environmental officer at your local authority and suggest ways that pet shops could promote responsible pet ownership.

- Think of things such as training staff appropriately in exotics
- Licensing standards for pet shops

Did you know?

People often buy young animals without finding out how big they will grow and how long they will live. As a result, pet owners might abandon or neglect the animals when they reach their full size